Using the broad range of media now easily available on the internet, this course will provide an opportunity to learn about current issues in Europe as examined through German language media. Print articles, radio broadcasts, TV news shows, and other internet websites now allow immediate access to contemporary Germany and we will use these sources during class discussions and activities to investigate issues in sports, politics, education, economics, history and culture.