BEGINNING GERMAN

In this course, we offer students a truly communicative approach that supports proficiency. Students will use German in a meaningful way in classes that will require active participation. By the end of the quarter, students will have been introduced to all four cases in German, the communicative and narrative past, and the subjunctive voice. Students will read short fairy tales and have achieved enough proficiency in German to advance to the intermediate level.

Prerequisite: German 101-2 or equivalent
